Sleigh bells ring, Pups want to play

By HOLLY J. WAGNER
Special Advertising Sections Writer

The holidays are all about comfort and joy, so it's natural around this time to think about those who bring us those treasured moments year-round. The fact that we want to keep our pets around for as long as possible has led to an explosion in healthy choices for dogs.

"We humanize pets," said Bob Vetere, president of the American Pet Products Assn. (APPMA), leading some people to choose toys more for themselves than the critters. "You have to look for something that is meaningful for the pet."

Our product testers for some of the latest healthy dog products were: Mugshot, a 27-pound Papillon mix; Gizmo, his Lhasa Apso companion; and Quigley, a 70-pound Australian Cattle dog.

Mugshot lit up like a Christmas tree when he saw Bamboo Pet's Combat Flying Cow Dog toy ($6.99-$10.88, Amazon.com). He loves flying discs. Gizmo couldn't care less about discs. But the Chase-It PetSafe's Wellness bed features a heater.

Kitty cat teaser ($24.95, www.PetGadgets.com) provided visions of good times dancing in (and around) her head. Quigley loves hide-the-goodie toys, and he gleefully attacked the Canine Genius Leo toy ($22, Muttropolis) when he smelled the goodie inside — Denta Clean breath mint treats ($4.95, PetSmart).

Mugshot really stresses out when lots of people come over for Christmas parties. Gizmo goes to pieces when it thunders outside. And New Year's Eve noise drives them both 'round the bend. They get some relief from the dog anti-anxiety pheromone, Comfort Zone DAP diffuser ($34.80, www.PetGadgets.com).

The dogs don't care much for car restraints, but having them is prudent for everyone's safety. The Kurgo BackSeat Barrier ($59.99, www.PetGadgets.com) stretches between split front seats to keep pets from wandering forward over the center console. Bamboo's leash with built-in seat belt latch ($15-$19, www.PetDiscounters.com) secures the pet.

After a long day trying out their presents, the canine crew was ready to settle in for a long winter's nap. Gizmo chose Petsafe's heated Wellness Sleeper, in the traditional oval shape so she can rest her head on the side. Quigley went for the Cadillac model Wellness Bed ($60-$90, www.premier-petsupplies.com), a flat bed with a heater plus low-level vibrating massage. Mugshot seemed to love Bamboo Pet's soft, washable Sleep Over Bags for small dogs ($36, Muttropolis) and cats ($29).

And the pooch crew slept soundly with visions of sugar plums dancing in their heads.
